If electrical components of the appliance get wet, unplug the appliance immediately. Death, injury, or destruction of property may result.
WARNING
Do not use appliance for other than intended use. The use of attachments, power cords, or accessories not sold by the manufacturer may cause an unsafe condition resulting in death, injury, or destruction of property may result.

To avoid possible electrical shock, special care should be taken since water is employed in the use of aquarium equipment.

- If a plug or receptacle becomes wet, immediately disconnect the fuse or circuit breaker.
- Do not operate any product if it has a damaged cord or plug, if it is malfunctioning or if it is dropped or damaged in any manner.
- Carefully examine the product after installation. It should not be plugged in if there is water on parts not intended to be wet
- Never yank cord to pull plug from outlet. Grasp the plug and pull to disconnect.
- Position the aquarium stand and tank to one side of a wall-mounted receptacle to prevent water from dripping onto the receptacle or plug. A "drip-loop" should be employed for each cord connecting an aquarium appliance to a receptacle. A "drip-loop" is the part of the cord below the level of the receptacle (or the connector if an extension cord), to prevent water from traveling along the cord and coming in contact with the receptacle.
- If an extension cord is necessary, a cord with a proper rating should be used. A cord rated for less amperes or watts than the appliance rating may overheat. Care should be taken to arrange the cord so that it will not be tripped over or pulled.
